BASEBALL NOTES.

Arthur Devlin, of the Boston Braves, is planning on taking a baseball team to Cuba next winter.

The Detroit Club has purchased pitcher George (Hulu) Mueller, of the Newark, Ohio, State League team.

It looks as if Bill Dahle had agreed eight when he added Frank Alter to Brooklyn's pitching staff.

Baseball teams of the Typographical Union will hold their annual tournament in Boston on August 25.

Manager Charlie Davis is using "Cactus" Cravat as a pinch hitter for the Quakers, and "Cactus" is some hitter.

Circle Milan, of the Washington team, has the jump on all the big leaguers in the race for base stealing honors for the season.

Eddie Plank of the Athletics and Joe Wood of the Red Sox are engaged in a competition for the pitching honors in the National League.

George W. McDonald Brown, of the Western Association, has made a good record in his first year.

A few weeks ago the White Sox were known as the "White Wonders." With

THE GENTLEMAN.

Robert E. Lee's Definition of the Qualities That Make Him.

Lee hated parade, display and ceremony, hated above all things being made an object of public gaze and adulation. His idea of high position was high responsibility, a superior was simply one who had larger duties, and the mark of a gentleman was a keen sense of the feelings and susceptibility of others. No one has ever expressed this attitude more delicately than he himself in this memorandum found among his papers after his death:

"The forbearing use of power does not only form a touchstone, but the manner in which an individual enjoys certain advantages over others is a test of a true gentleman. The power which the strong have over the weak, the magistrate over the citizen, the employer over the employee, the educated over the unlettered, the experienced over the condiling; even the clever over the silly—the forbearing or lenient use of all this power or authority or a total abstention from it when the case admits it, will show the gentleman in a plain light. The gentleman does not needlessly and unnecessarily remind an offender of a wrong he may have committed against him. He cannot only forgive, he can forget, and he strives for that nobleness of self and mildness of character which impart sufficient strength to let the past be but the past. A true man of honor feels humbled himself when he cannot help troubling others"—General Bradford, Jr., in Atlantic.

SKIN OF A BADGER.

Be Loose the Animal Can Almost Turn Around In It.

The pelt of an adult badger is extremely thick and difficult for a biting adversary to penetrate, writes a trapper in Fur News, and so loosely does the skin cover the body that the animal is able to turn almost around in its hide.

Should a dog acquire a hold on the throat the badger turns himself so that the dog's grip is on the back of the badger's neck without having loosened his first hold. Then the badger seizes a vise-like grip upon some vulnerable portion of his enemy, and while his long, thick claws penetrate to the hilt, he digs and scratches with his front feet, which are furnished with claws almost as formidable and deadly as might be expected from an anteater of the dark continent.

He who has removed the pelt of a badger is at all observing does not wonder at this animal being sharp bitten and that he is able to hang with bulldog tenacity when the formation and adjustment of his jaws are noted. Neither is it so much of a mystery how he manages to bore through the soil so rapidly that half a dozen men with shovels cannot overtake him, for he is a mass of cords and muscles, particularly in the neck, chest and shoulders, very similar in physical construction to the ground mole.

A badger is chiefly variable when it has a long coat, so that the guard hairs can be plucked and used to make shaving brushes.

When Ice Covered Europe.

During the long tertiary epoch, when upswells disported themselves on the site of Paris and meadows tramped along the valley of the Thames, the earth was in the throes of mountain making. The Alps, the Himalayas, the Alleghenies, the Andes, attest the power of her activity in those days. At their termination our continents stood greatly higher than they do now, and this aided their glaciation, although it does not fully account for it. But as they became loaded with ice Europe and America gradually and we may venture to say contemporaneously sank. This was inevitable. Owing to the extreme heat and pressure prevailing in its interior the earth is an extremely elastic body. Its surface actually bulges in or out with a very slight increase or decrease of the load upon it.

Children's Prattle.

At times it cannot be denied the questions of children become irksome, but who would wish a child to ask no questions? Julius Sturm tells in one of his pretty fairy tales how a grandfather, driven into impatience by the constant questioning of his grandchild, exclaimed, "I wish your tongue were out of joint!" But when unexpectedly his wish was fulfilled and the child became dumb how joyfully exchanged one of the two years which an angel had prophesied he was yet to live for the privilege of hearing the little one's prattle again!—Exchange.

A Notable Exception.

"All animal products you know," said the teacher, "are perishable and soon decay if not artificially preserved."

"Yes, sir," cordially assented the smiling young man with the wicked eye, "especially elephants' ivory."—Chicago Tribune.

Ridiculous.

Nowlywed—What, $20 for a hat? Why, that's simply ridiculous, my dear! Mrs. Nowlywed—That's what I thought, Harold. But you said it was all we could afford.—Atlanta Georgian.

Only Technically.

"Is your child in bed by 8 every evening?"

"Technically, yes. We begin arguing about that time."—Washington Herald.

The eyes of other people are the eyes that ruin us.—Franklin.

Gentlemen:—In response to your letter of June 6th, I wish to state that the University of Texas has contemplated getting out a bulletin on the subject of paving, but it will be impossible to do anything definite.

Personally I am as thoroughly of the opinion that paving is the best way to repair, sanitary and to mind, fitting our needs exactly. Yours Respectfully,
